

BON DYLAN SET PERRY VOICE OF GOD INTROS

MIKE INTRO

How y'doin?

We're sure glad to see ya.

Glad t'hear ya.

Welcome to Carson Park, by the way. My dad won a little league trophy here, back in the 50s. He's 84 years old now. Hadn't been to a Carson Park ballgame here in three quarters of a century. So last year after Mom died, I picked him up at the farm and brought him on down. Sat up in the stands back there with him, behind home plate. Along about the seventh inning he leans over and says to me, "The last time I watched a ballgame here, Hank Aaron was playin' shortstop."

If you're a baseball fan you know that's a pretty big deal. And if you're not a baseball fan, maybe the musical corollary is if you turn your eyes from the baseball field to the football field and I tell you back in the late 1990s a young high schooler made varsity and caught passes on those very yard lines, but then the college scholarships never came through and Justin Vernon had to find some other game to play.
